The Revolution Progressing—Dreadful State of Affairs—Southwark converted into Kensington.

Correspondence of the New-York Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7—4 P. M.

We are in the midst of awful times! A revolution, of the most fearful import, is now perading our once fair city. Since my last communication, there have been serious outbreaks in the Districts of Southwark and Moymensing.

At an early hour last evening, thousands began to collect in the vicinity of St. Philip de Neuf Church, Queen-street, and strong demonstrations of violence were repeatedly manifested in the part of many present. The conduct of the Priest, Rev. J. P. Dunn, has been of the most censurable character, and vindictive is the feeling toward him. All the present excitement may, without the fear of truthful contradiction, be laid to his account.

The Military were also early upon the ground, with a strong body of Police, who took possession of the Church. Several pieces of cannon were drawn up in solemn array, and the whole scene was one calculated to strike horror to the most stolid.

But to the present state of affairs. At 11 o'clock, Gen. Cadwallader—who has forever deemed himself in the estimation of the People—gave several orders for the cannon fronting the church, as well as the musketry, to be fired upon the multitude present. Hon. Charles Naylor, late Member of Congress from the Third District, interfered, and begged Gen. C. to countermand his order, alleging that sooner than see his fellow citizens murdered, he would die himself. He was then arrested, placed in the church, where he was detained a prisoner until 12 o'clock this day, when about 2000 marched in front of the building, demanded his release, planting a cannon charged to the muzzle, at the same time facing the main entrance. A battering ram caused the doors to give way, when the mob entered, defied the military, released Mr. Naylor, and escorted him home in 5th near Prune, amid shouts of applause. Here he addressed them, and exhorted all to return to their homes.

At about half past one, the Irish Greens, who had charge—very imprudently—of the Church, were assailed, driven out, and forced to leave the ground, under promise of protection, providing they would open the pews of their matchlocks.—This they did not do, and were consequently as sailed in running; they wheeled and fired, shooting one or two persons. At Fifth and Small-streets, one of them took shelter, after having shot a young man from Spring Garden. He was dragged out by the mob, conveyed to Commissioners Hall, but was nearly beaten and stamped to death before he reached the place.

Thousands now began to assemble in every direction. The military were kept at a distance, being unwilling to approach, it would seem, as their commander had proved obnoxious to them. POSTSCRIPT.

Quarter past Four, P. M.—The mob have battered down the wall fronting the Church, and an entrance into the same, and will in all probability fire it, notwithstanding Grover, Levin and others, are endeavoring to save it from destruction. The fire had been kindled, but was put out in two or three places.

The State House bell is now sounding the alarm—the firemen are out, and one general scene of tumult and confusion prevails throughout the city.

This new disgrace to the City will have to be shed out by the most condign punishment. It seems us now to ferret out from among us these violators of the law and bring them to justice.

The military are just beginning to move. B.

LATER FROM BUENOS AIRES AND MONTEVIDEO.

The Swedish brig Lumen, Capt. Olson, arrived Saturday morning from Buenos Ayres, whence she sailed on the 21st May. The Captain informs us that war at Montevideo was raging furiously, and the steamer was still on port and provisions.
